Collection Development Policy
Environmental Studies

Subject Librarian: Rhonda Culbertson

Purpose of Policy: The collection development policy for Environmental Studies guides the development and management of the Environmental Studies collection.

Program Description: The objective of this interdisciplinary minor is for students to develop a broad understanding of our environment from the perspectives of the natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities. The minor provides an introduction to the physical and biological disciplines of environmental studies, in addition to instruction in ethical, political, and social topics necessary for effective implementation of sound environmental policy.

Students are required to take 15 credit hours distributed among physical science, biological science, and policy/ethics courses. At least 6 credit hours must be taken at the 200-level or above

Areas of Established Specialization: Environmental Studies related to Physical Sciences, Geology, Biological Sciences, Anthropology and Philosophy,

Changes in User Population for the Most Recent Five Years: Has stayed relatively stable. Courses in various disciplines continue to be added as electives.

New and Expanding Areas of Interest: Overlap with Sustainability program continues to inform the offerings

Degrees Offered:

• Environmental Studies Minor

Clientele: The primary clientele are the students in the minor and faculty teaching Environmental Studies courses. Members of the Michiana community may also use the collection.

Scope and Collection Guidelines

The Environmental Studies collection consists of works written for the basic through advanced undergraduate level. Graduate- and research-level publications are collected selectively.

Formats Collected: Scholarly monographs, serials, collections of essays, conference proceedings, videos, and electronic resources are extensively collected

Formats Excluded: Pamphlets, newsletters, article reprints, and required textbooks. Popular and/or journalistic monographs are collected selectively

Language: The collection is primarily in English.

Geographic Coverage: All geographic areas are covered. For titles with a geographic focus, preference is given to materials relating to the region (Michiana, northern Indiana, and Midwest)

Chronological Periods Collected: Priority is given to current publications. Older imprints are collected selectively, usually as replacements for classic works, or upon request.
Subject Emphases: The Environmental Studies collection focuses on the topics of drawing from Chemistry, Biology, Geology, Philosophy and to a lesser extent History, Political Science, Women's Studies and Anthropology.

Reference: Reference material for Environmental Studies are selected by the Environmental Studies subject librarian following the general subject parameters of the collection policy.

Interdisciplinary Considerations: Due to the interdisciplinary nature of Environmental Studies, materials are also occasionally selected in the areas of Biology, Chemistry, Geology and Philosophy.

Location: Environmental Studies materials are housed in the Schurz Library. Works specifically about the discipline of Environmental Sciences are classified in the GE schedule of Library of Congress system.
